Young Harris shooting incident nears conclusion

By Charles Duncan
TOWNS COUNTY HERALD

The Georgia Bureau of Investigation probe of a recent shooting in Young Harris is nearing completion,

Sheriff Chris Clinton

Towns County Sheriff Chris Clinton said.

"We're waiting on word from District Attorney Stan Gunter and the final investigation results from the GBI investigation," Clinton said. "When the time is right, we'll make a statement that brings all the factors in this case to light.

"Right now, it's still under investigation by another agency and out of our hands," Sheriff Clinton said. "Anytime one of our officers is involved in a shooting, the GBI will be investigating those circumstances."

Evidence, including ballistics to determine ownership of bullets, is still being processed at the state crime laboratory, GBI Special Agent Mike Ayers said.

"(Enotah Circuit) District Attorney Stan Gunter will be responsible for where this case goes from here," Ayers said.

Two Towns County sheriff's deputies were placed on administrative leave because of their involvement in the shooting incident, according to Sheriff Clinton.

The shooting incident, which also involved two Young Harris College Campus Police, happened after Towns County deputies re-

Lake Chatuge claims toddler's life

TOWNS COUNTY HERALD

Tragedy touched a Towns County family Saturday evening in the Sunnyside Estates community off Georgia Highway 288.

And Towns County Sheriff Chris Clinton says the innocence of youth is the most likely factor leading to the accidental drowning of a 3-year-old child in Lake Chatuge.

"This truly is a tragic situation," Sheriff Clinton said. "Anytime a child dies, it's always a tragedy. It's not supposed to happen to our babies.

"Our thoughts and prayers are with the family of this young child," he said. "Telling a family that one of their babies has died is the toughest job in law enforcement."

The child, whose name has not yet been released by local authorities, was reported drowned at 8:44 p.m. on Saturday, Towns County sheriff's Lt. Mike Davis said.

"She was found in the water around 8:43 or 8:44 p.m.," Lt. Davis said. "I've worked many death-related incidents in my career, but when it comes to kids, it's always a personal heart-breaker."

The child was in the yard at her family's home playing with a Spiderman ball, a favorite toy of the family dog, Lt. Davis said.

"She wound up on some property across the street from her home," Lt. Davis said. "It was a vacant home, lakeside property.

"The ball went into the lake and she went in after it," he said. "That's what it looks like happened. The ball was in the lake also. It was just a little Spiderman ball about six or seven inches wide."

The events that led up to the eventual drowning of the child remain under investigation by sheriff's investigators, Sheriff Clinton said.

"The investigation is standard procedure required by the state," Sheriff Clinton said. "From what we can tell, everything involved with this incident appears to be purely accidental."

Sewer summit scheduled at City Hall

By Charles Duncan
TOWNS COUNTY HERALD

Local leaders hope that a summit at City Hall on June 26 will bring a resolve to the service delivery strategy among local government.

The meeting scheduled for Friday, June 26 at 2 p.m. at City Hall, brings representatives of local governments and authorities together to discuss the future growth of Towns County and its municipalities.

The key topic of discussion continues to revolve around water issues and future sewer capacity, Towns County Sole Commissioner Bill Kendall said.

"The county hosted a similar meeting recently and nothing seemed to happen,"

Kendall said. "I told Barbara (Hiwassee Mayor Barbara Mathis) that she could host the next one."

Commissioner Kendall said it is imperative that the county, the cities of Hiwassee and Young Harris and the Towns County Water and Sewer Authority develop a long-range service delivery strategy plan to provide water and sewage for the next decade.

"The county, the cities of Hiwassee and Young Harris and the Towns County Water and Sewer Authority are going to have to sit down and develop a long-term service delivery strategy to avoid water and sewer issues in the future," Kendall said.

City Manager Rick Stancil

The service delivery summit comes on the heels of strong words during a recent Hiwassee City Council meeting. City Manager Rick Stancil told the council that the city has had no action

Bald Mountain Park forms Neighborhood Watch

By David Seckinger
TOWNS COUNTY HERALD

The Bald Mountain Park Neighborhood Association included a Neighborhood Watch presentation during their regular monthly meeting last Saturday. The interest in a Neighborhood Watch came after months of burglaries in the area.

Association president Jim Shute said the association was planning to begin a watch a year ago when there was a rash of burglaries in the county. However, after the capture of the burglars, the association members lost interest in a Neighborhood Watch. Shute said he hopes the same thing does not happen this time.

Donaldson speaks to the BMPNA about Neighborhood Watch.

Towns County Sheriff's Office investigator Brian Wilson spoke to Bald Mountain Park residents earlier this month, which led to the arrest of one juvenile and a warrant for the arrest of Christopher Blake Carroll in connection with the burglaries.

Neighborhood association vice president Steve Manning said the burglaries happened north of the Jones Gap and Quinn Cove intersection to summer homes that had been abandoned during the off season.

About 70 people attended the meeting last Saturday, which Manning called a normal sized crowd for their monthly meetings.

TCSO lieutenant Curt Donaldson spoke to the mostly elderly crowd about beginning a Neighborhood Watch in Bald Mountain

Traffic stop leads to record drug bust

By Charles Duncan
TOWNS COUNTY HERALD
charlesduncan@brmemc.net

Towns County sheriff's deputies and investigators continue to turn up the heat on suspected drug dealers.

Sheriff Chris Clinton's work force has registered yet another drug bust in a record-breaking year for local drug arrests.

A routine traffic stop by Towns County sheriff's Deputy Mark Marshall has led to multiple drug-related charges for a Texas woman, Sheriff Clinton said on Monday.

Deputy Marshall stopped Billie Regina Jay of Willis Point, Texas on Sunday on Hog Creek Road during a routine traffic stop as she drove her 1996 Cadillac Deville, Sheriff Clinton said.

Following a search of the vehicle, the stop resulted in multiple alleged violations of the Georgia Controlled Substance Act in addition to the traffic violation, Sheriff Clinton said.

Deputy Marshall was assisted during the traffic stop by an Appalachian Drug Task Force agent as law enforcement during the search of the vehicle driven by Jay, Sheriff Clinton said.

The search yielded more than a pound of suspected marijuana, oxycodone pills and $3,160 in cash, Sheriff Clinton said.

The arrest brings the 2009 total of local drug busts to more than 230, Sheriff Clinton said. The total number of drug arrests for 2009 is unprecedented beyond any previous year on record in Towns County, the sheriff said.

"We've been busy," the sheriff said.

The Towns County Sheriff's Office also has filed the proper paper work to seize the 1996 Cadillac Deville driven by Jay, which was used to transport the suspected illegal drugs, Sheriff Clinton said.

"As drug arrests go up, crime goes down," Sheriff Clinton said.

Gold Wing Riders tour Towns

About 800 bikers got their motors running last weekend in Hiwassee as the Gold Wing Road Riders held a rally at the Georgia Mountain Fairgrounds. Georgia district director Bill Livingston said the Riders met for rallies in the area for nine years, but they left for the last four years. "Now we are back again," he said.

Riders have come from as far as Illinois and Connecticut to camp at the fairgrounds and fill up the hotels. Livingston claimed you couldn't find a vacant hotel room in 30 miles. "Our members love this area," he said. "It is obvious by the turnout we had for the event."
