'Memory Lane' museum to display classic cars for charity

By Todd Forrest

YOUNG HARRIS – After giving rise to the motel industry, the suburbs, the interstate highway system and other pillars of 20th-century America, the classic automobile will now bolster Towns County's economy and local tourism in 2020 and beyond.

Last week, local philanthropists Jerry and June Smith brought three truckloads of classic cars to Towns County High School to give the community a preview of things to come.

And later this month, the Smiths will launch the Memory Lane Classic Car Museum, located next door to Fieldstone Cinemas Six at the former site of Fun World.

The museum will house approximately 100 classic cars, hot rods, motorcycles and more, with galleries alternating weekly from among the Smiths' growing collection of more than 160 automobiles. Available in the museum are actor Burt Reynolds' 1978 Pontiac Firebird Trans Am from the movie "Hooper," with the hood and dash photographed by Reynolds himself; former NASCAR driver Richard Petty's 1969 Ford Torino; and many other classic cars.

According to Towns County Sole Commissioner Cliff Bradshaw, the museum will provide a much-needed nitro boost to local tourism following the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic that has already claimed the Blairsville Scottish Festival and other community mainstays.

"This is going to have a tremendous impact on tourism and the entire area, but most importantly, we're gaining two very valuable friends," Bradshaw said. "Jerry and June Smith are wonderful people that want to give back to the community."

"They could have chosen to live wherever they want and however they want, and they chose Towns County."

Originally from Stone Mountain, Jerry Smith comes to Towns County by way of Eatonton, where he operated another auto museum in the Lake Oconee region.

Following a short break from the vintage car business, Jerry acknowledged that he could no longer ignore his two life callings: classic cars and compassion. When the museum opens to the public, all proceeds will benefit local charities, he said.

"Admission will be $5, with 12-and-under free," he said. "And 100 percent of the proceeds will go to charities in Towns and Union Counties."

"There are some things that are very important to me, things like veterans' groups, the Humane Society, Future Farmers of America, and on and on. We'll also sell shirts, mugs, souvenirs, and we'll hold a few car shows each year, with everything going to charity."

up in Towns County, due to health concerns stemming from breathing issues, he chose cool, low-humidity mountain breezes over the central Georgia heat.

And ever since arriving, he and his wife have been blown away by the warm welcome and local hospitality of Northeast Georgia.

"I cannot tell you how well I've been treated by the people of Towns and Union County in such a short period of time," he said. "I've never seen anything like it. It's a memory I will never forget. They're genuine and good down-to-earth people, like me."

Advanced in-person voting for the Aug. 11 Republican and Democratic Primary Runoff Elections began Monday and will continue through Friday, Aug. 7.

Early voting takes place

weekdays from 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. at the Towns County Board of Elections & Registration Office located in Suite A of 67 Lakeview Circle in Hiawassee next to the courthouse.

Voters can cast ballots even during lunchtime, though importantly, there is no required Saturday scheduled for weekend early voting due to the runoff nature of the election.

The election features four runoff contests that were undecided in the June 9 General Primary, including three races to decide Republican nominees for the offices of Towns County Sheriff, District 50 State Senator and U.S. Representative in the 117th Congressional District; and one Democratic race for 9th Congressional District.

For Towns County Sheriff, Kenneth "Ode" Henderson is squaring off against Daren "Bear" Osborn for the Republican nomination, with the Aug. 11 runoff winner currently being set to appear unchallenged on the Nov. 3 General Election ballot.

For District 50 State Senator, Republicans Stacy Hall and Bo Hatchett are vying for their party's nomination, with the Aug. 11 runoff winner also set to appear unchallenged by party opposition in November.

For the 9th Congressional District race, on the Republican side are Matt Gurtler and Andrew Clyde, while the Democratic ticket features Devin Pandy and Brooke Siskin. Whoever

The City of Hiawassee has between Hiawassee Hardware and the new location of Trailful Outdoor Co. that adds convenient parking and prevents traffic backups in the area, Mayor Liz Ordiales said.

Trailful occupies the old Victoria's Attic building, where it moved from Timberlake Plaza down the street.

"That building has been unoccupied for many years, and one of the complaints that we receive often is that there is nowhere to park there," Ordiales said. "We felt like it might be advantageous to

With news of COVID-19 positive cases continuing to increase around the region, state and nation – due in large part to increased testing – people in the area seem split on their feelings about the virus.

Kyler North of Fannin County, for instance, said anxieties over the virus are definitely overblown.

"I haven't been wearing a mask out in public since this all started," North said while at a yard sale in front of Mull's Inn July 18. "I think that this virus is just fear-mongering and that people are blowing it out of proportion."
